4th of July Picnic

A date has been set for the Cordell Christian Home's 4th of July Picnic! It will be taking place at 6:00pm on Friday, June 26th! There will be hotdogs, burgers, chips, pop, and much more! There will be food and fun and we get to celebrate our country's independence together!

Invitations have already been sent out families and friends and we are expecting to have a big crowd again this year. All invited are asked to bring a side dish, dessert, or homemade ice-cream. With all of that home cooking it is sure to be good eats! And...Resident's...Great news! You don't have to do a thing. We just want your wonderful company at the picnic!

The 4th of July Picnic is a tradition of the Cordell Christian Home's and is always a great way for people to get together. So many good memories are made at CCH gatherings so we hope to see you on the 26th! Come out and be part of 2009's 4th of July memories!

If You Give a Mouse a Motorcycle

If you give a mouse a motorcycle,
don't be too surprised
if he starts behaving strangely
once he knows he's motorized.

He may act a bit bizarrely.
He may dress a little weird.
He might buy a leather jacket
and then grow a honkin' beard.

When he straps a helmet on his head
and boots upon his feet,
then you'll see him pop a wheelie
and go racing down the street.

Pretty soon he'll find he's fond of doing motorcycle tricks.
He'll be jumping over cars and trucks
and buses just for kicks.

He'll start working at the circus
where he'll take away your breath
as he rides with other rodents
in the flaming cage of death.

When he accidentally crashes
he'll have no more fun and games;
just the screech of twisting metal
as his bike explodes in flames.

And without his motorcycle
he'll be fired from his job.
He'll become depressed and lonely
and a sad and smelly slob.

And the only way to save him
from this misery and pain
is to buy another motorbike
so he can start again.

So remember this advice:
Don't even trust him with your keys.
If you need to give a mouse a gift,
it's best to stick with cheese.

Weekly Devotional

Watch What You Say

A rebuke affects a man of discernment more than a hundred lashes a fool.
Proverbs 17:10

Watch what you say and to whom you say it. It is possible to destroy a person's spirit through hurtful words. To hurt another is unfulfilling. However, kindness is rewarding. Be like our Lord. He loves you no matter the situation.
