

Cordell Christian Home's Resident's Digest

The Cordell Christian Home is home to a variety of people. We have men and women of different ethnic and religious backgrounds. Residents' ages range from 40 to 100+ and we are caregivers to the very ill as well as the very independent. But, there is one common denominator in all of our residents- They all have families outside of CCH that they care deeply for and desire to be as close as possible to them. Fortunately, we can give many of our residents and their families that option.

Like their loved ones, many family members also see distance as a negative aspect when choosing a care home. Families and friends want their loved ones to be taken care of, but don't want to be out of the loop. They want to be there for the holidays and birthdays and to be involved in their loved one's life and care. We understand this need at CCH and we see it as very essential to the happiness of both the resident and family members. The centralized location of the Cordell Christian Home is extremely convenient for Western Oklahoma families. Being within the residential community gives our folks and their families a realization that CCH really is home and not just another business on Main Street.

It is very important to us that our residents' families are involved with their loved one's care and are aware of their daily activities. We support residents, families, and friends rights relative to feeling comfortable expressing any concerns or suggestions they may have. We also encourage families and friends to come and visit their loved ones as often as possible because the love and company of family cannot be replaced. Cordell Christian Home works hard to make get-togethers easy and enjoyable for our residents and their families. During the year we host holiday parties and special gatherings designed for everyone's enjoyment. Additionally, our sunroom is available to be reserved by residents and their families at no cost for private family parties.

We know that living nearby is not always an option for family members. In these situations, we always let families know that communication line with their loved one is always open, whether by phone or by computer. It is a guarantee at the Cordell Christian Home that whether you live in Cordell, Oklahoma or half way across the world, your loved one will always be cared for like they are our own family. And whether you are a resident or one of their loved ones, you are truly only seconds apart at CCH.
